"Pressestimmen 'Doctors' tales of their patients' weirder afflictions have been popular since Oliver Sacks... Few of them, however, are as bizarre or unsettling, as those described in this extraordinary and extraordinarily compassionate book' (James McConnachie Sunday Times)'A fascinating glimpse into the human condition... a forceful call for society to be more open about such suffering' (Ian Birrell Daily Mail)'An important study of psychosomatic illness, which shows it to be a serious disease of modern society: misunderstood, misdiagnosed and surrounded by fear' (Louise Carpenter Telegraph)'Remarkable Book? Offer[s] a remarkable insight into the suffering of these patients, as well as the power of the mind over the body? It should be on the reading list of every medical student.' (PD Smith Guardian)'A book to start a revolution in healthcare, to make use see what no one has seen so clearly before' (Helen Rumbelow Times) Über den Autor und weitere Mitwirkende Dr Suzanne O'Sullivan has been a consultant in neurology since 2004, first working at The Royal London Hospital and now as a consultant in clinical neurophysiology and neurology at The National Hospital for Neurology and Neurosurgery, and for a specialist unit based at the Epilepsy Society. She specialises in the investigation of complex epilepsy and also has an active interest in psychogenic disorders. Suzanne's book about psychosomatic illness, It's All in Your Head, won both the Wellcome Book Prize and the Royal Society of Biology Book Prize."
